Introduction

Evergreen By Design is excited to be apart of your website journey. My name is Todd and I will be your website liaison. My whole goal with this business is to give my clients the most “hands-off” tech experience when dealing with websites.

I have helped many people over the years overcome their website struggles. What I have learned through-out these years is that most people don’t want to learn or have to deal with all the tech that goes behind website design and management.

This is where I step in. I become the person who manages everything on your website. So instead of dealing with tech, you just give me a call or email me and I will get it done for you according to your plan. It’s just that simple!

This packet is here to help you get a jump start on learning how Evergreen By Design works.

This packet is also your tool to help you get the website you have envisioned. You don’t have to follow these guidelines by any means, but is just more of a reference for you.

I also give references to links that can help you create GDRF compliance website terms and conditions and Privacy Policies. This helps to ensure your website is protected legally.

How Evergreen By Design Works

Your first step is deciding the plan that best suit your online needs. If you need help with this process don't hesitate to call or email me.

After you have decided on a plan, I will send you an email. This email will contain

- Website Services Agreement (Link)
- Website Design Payment (Link)
- Website Plan Payment (Link)
- Terms of Services (PDF)

Before your website services can begin you will need to sign the website services agreement and pay both the website design fee and website monthly plan fee.

The next step is to start getting your website content in order. This includes any written, audio, logos, videos and images you want on your website.

During this time, I will get your website services started and prep your website for design.

Once I have received content from you, I will begin designing your website. During this process I may ask information from you depending on the type of website you have and the integrations you want on your website.

After your website is designed, I will put it online and send you a notice that it is online. Go over your website and if you see any changes that you want me to make. I will make them asap.

Website Design and Management Plans

The website design fee is a ONE-TIME fee.

Website Design: $499.00

This fee covers your websites initial design. The number of pages that you can get designed vary from plan to plan. All website pages that I design are SEO friendly and look good on any phone or desktop. With Premium plans and above you also get landing page designs and yearly page redesigns.

Ecommerce (shop) Design: $749.00

Ecommerce (shop) design is for anyone who wants to sell goods and/or services online. You get everything that comes with the website design, based on the plan you are on, but you also get these pages designed as well

- Shop Page
- Checkout Page
- Cart Page
- Account Page

Your website management and service fees are a monthly fee to maintain your website and services.

Basic Plan: $129.00/Mo

The basic plan is a great plan for anyone who just needs to get a website online. If you are looking for a way to provide information about your business online, or need a way for new customers to contact you online, then this is the plan for you! This plan will allow you to make minimal changes as needed to your website. Ecommerce Design is unavailable with this plan.

Premium Plan: $179.00/Mo

The premium plan is by far the most popular plan because it comes with everything you need for your website including an email marketing system! The ability to collect subscribers and send promotional emails or newsletters to them is huge! Plus, you get unlimited transactional emails which is a must to run a successful online ecommerce website. To cap it all off you also get a free professional domain email.

Gold Plan: $229.00/Mo

The gold plan takes your website to the next level. Just think more of everything (pages, weekly emails, subscribers, etc.). Not to mention that this plan now enables email automation.

Elite Plan: $279.00/Mo

The elite plan is for people who need to make frequent changes to their website or need a more robust email automation for their marketing.

Legal Policies for Your Website

In today's online world there are legal laws that need to be followed by your website when it comes to collecting information about one of your users.

These laws center around things like Cookies used on your website, collecting subscriber information, website sales, and more.

Honestly, I am no lawyer and I don't expect you to be one either. Lucky for use there is a great site to use that will help you generate all the policies that you need for your website.

Termly: <https://termly.com> is a great website to create these policies. Most websites will need at least 2 polices.

- Terms of use (defines the terms of how your website is used)
- Privacy Policy (defines what information you collect from your users and how you use that information)

Now, most of these laws came from the EU and the compliance form is called GDPR (General Data Protection Regulation).

But, they are not the only ones out there that have specific laws in regards on how you collect peoples data and even some USA states have specific laws.

Needless to say, you need to have these policies on your website to protect you from legal action.

How to Generate Your Website Legal Policies

Generating these policies are relatively easy if you use Termly (and its FREE). Termly does have paid versions depending on your needs, but most of the time you can get by on the free version.

Now the free version only allows you to create one document at a time. After you have created your document in the top right there will be a button labeled “add to website”

Click on this button and it will present you with 3 options, 2 will be paid options (link and download policy) but there will be the free option that will only give you the html code.

Good news is that you have hired a web developer that know code very well. All you have to do is copy the code and save it in either notepad, Microsoft Word, or just email me it.

After you have saved the code for that document (and since you can create only 1 document at a time) you can go and delete that policy from Termly and create another one. Repeat the process to save it.

Termly will take you through a series of questions on how users will interact with your website and what data you collect from people. After you have answered these questions, it will create your policies for you!

Website Content Emails

When it comes to emailing me content for your website, there are a couple of suggested way to do it.

1) Quick emails

For most content you can send me an email specifying the section of your website that you want to change and the content that you want to change it to. Please include your domain and email when you send me an email. Example:

----- Email Example -----

Hi Todd,

Domain: youwebsite.com

Email: you@email.com

Can you change the phone number on the homepage up at the top.

I also need my email changed to this email example@email.com where ever it is present on the website.

Thanks!

----- End -----

Generally, I can get most changes done within 1 business day, but if I am really slammed or if your content change requires a little redesign configuration, it can take me 1-3 business days, so please plan accordingly.

2) Page Design Emails Simple

Homepage- (page)

Section 1: (section)

Heading: Welcome to my business (content)

Description: We are a great business (content)

Image: business-man-suit.jpg (image)

Section 2:

Text: We hear at my business we do all types of cool things

Video: <https://youtube/myvideo.com>

Section 3:

More Content

----- End -----

This is a simple way to layout your content. If you want to add image(s) you can upload an image in email and name the image filename that you want to use in that section. If you want to upload a video or audio just follow the same procedure.

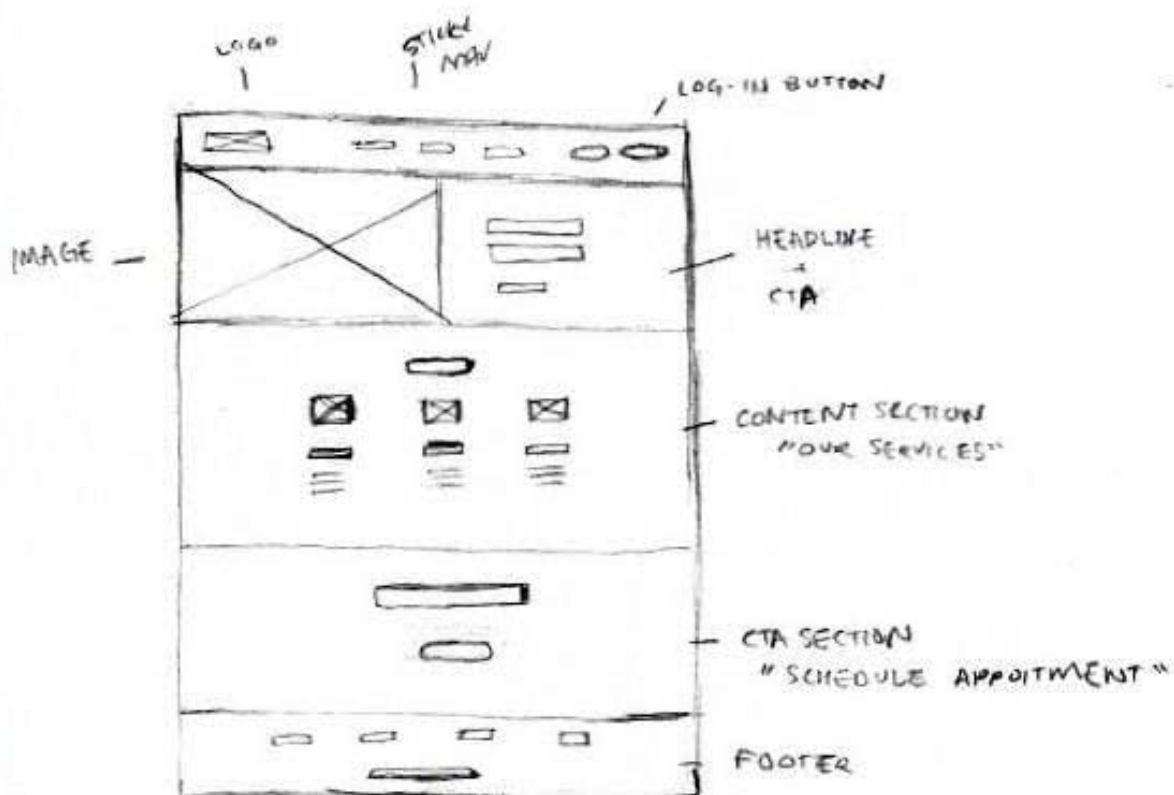

Please Note* Uploading videos and audio and using them directly on your server can be extremely exhausting on bandwidth and space and can incur website performance issues. It is always Evergreen By Designs recommendation to use a third party video hosting service for uploading your videos and audio (such as youtube, vimeo, soundcloud, etc). From there you only have to either provide me a link or code (depending on the third-party system that you are using) and I can get the video or audio on your website. This will be playable from your website as well!

You can follow this simple format for all your website pages in either email or a Microsoft Word Doc.

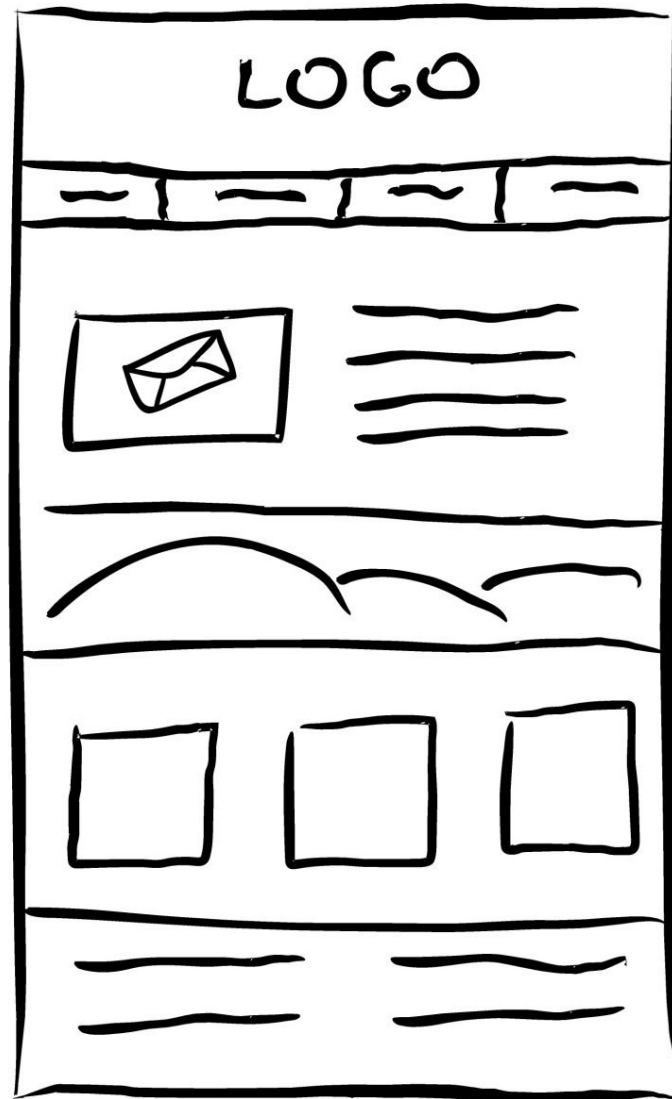

If you are looking to specify a little bit more detail, you can simply draw a layout as a guide to the type of website page design you are looking for.

3) Page Design Examples Advance

----- Example 1 -----

----- Example 2 -----

These sketches don't have to be pretty, but it allows you to give me more details about how you want your website layout out.

Please note* that this is not mandatory and I will layout your website if you just send content. This is only if you want to get more specific or already have an idea of what you want your website to look like.

Email Marketing

Evergreen By Design is proud to offer a managed email marketing system. This system allows you to generate subscribers and keep in touch with current and possible customers through emails.

Plus, if you have an Ecommerce (shop) website you get unlimited transactional emails for online sales.

Transactional emails - are automated emails sent from one sender to one recipient, usually related to account notifications or activity or a commercial transaction.

This is great for sell receipts to your customers. It also works for forgotten password requests on your website for users to get back into their accounts.

With the Gold plan and above you can also have automated email segments where you can space out the email sending overtime after a user has completed an action on your website (like subscribing or making a purchase).

This is a great way to keep your customers or subscribers engaged with your business.

To send emails out to your subscribers just email the email (there's a tongue tie) to me and I will send it out usually within 1 to 3 business days.

Website Integrations

Evergreen By Design will handle your website integrations for you. This usually consist of

AdSense: running ads on your website,

Google Analytics: keeps detailed records about the traffic to your website.

Social Media Integrations: Gives people a way to find your social media profiles.

Affiliate Marketing Integrations: Gets affiliate products integrated into your website.

Payment Gateways (i.e PayPal, Stripe, Square, etc.): This is a way to accept credit card payments with your shop. I don't do direct to bank transactions with your website for security reasons.

All of these are considered third-party platforms and Evergreen By Design does not manage any of these accounts for you. These accounts are your responsibility to manage and I will not have access to them.

I do integrate these platforms into your website for you though. You just need to get me the integration information that I need from your account for me to integrate these platforms into your website.

These are usually pretty easy to find and I can also help guide you to the information that I need.

None of these are required unless you are running an Ecommerce website and need a payment gateway.

Ecommerce Websites

Ecommerce website management is pretty nice. All you have to do is send me the products you want posted according to your plans limits and I will create a shop, cart, checkout, and account page (if needed) for your website shop.

Please Note* that the Posts per month are the product limit posting you can have me add per month.

Example:

If you have 20 products to sell then you will need the Elite plan to post all 20 products at once. If you have more then 20 products you will have to keep adding them throughout the months of service.

Posts per month also goes towards your limit of changing products out as well so keep that in mind when choosing a plan.

How Would My Ecommerce Website Work?

How it works is that once a customer has made a purchase on your website you will receive an email detailing the purchase that was made.

Please Note* It is your responsibility for fulfill any purchases that are made on your website! If you have to ship a product it is your responsibility to ship said product after purchase.

When it comes to communication with your customers you and the customer have direct access to each other. I don't ever communicate with one of my client's customers.

All your receipt emails will have your email as a response email (and your phone number if you want it included).

If a customer is having any problems with the website (example: can't access their account) they will contact you first. All you have to do is forward me that email and I will fix it asap.

Third-Party Shop Options?

Now, you technically don't have to run your shop through your website. If you interested in more control over your shop then you may want to look into a Third-Party Shop options like Shopify or Amazon.

If you do choose to run your shop on a Third-Party system you can simply give me the link to your shop and I can add it to your website that way.

If you choose to run your shop on a third-party platform you do not need to pay for the Ecommerce website design but just the website design fee of $499.00.

While that all sounds good, there are a few downsides to the third-party option as well.

- 1) You are responsible for third-party shop design, which might not correlate with your website design.
- 2) You are responsible for all fees for said third-party shop.

- 3) You will need to learn how to use the tech with your third-party shop.

Professional Domain Email

With a Premium Plan and above you get a professional domain email (you@yourdomain.com).

You have access to this email through a website URL that I will provide to you with login information.

Email management is your responsibility. Evergreen By Design is not responsible for deleting or sending any emails from your Professional Email.

If you do decide to cancel your plan the professional domain email will also be canceled with your plan. It is your responsibility to get any emails that you want to save from your professional email before you cancel.

Each Professional Email comes with 10gb of storage and a file upload maximum of 50mb.

If you have a shop or are running email marketing campaigns it is highly recommended that you get a professional email.

Please Note* It is not mandatory to have your professional email domain with Evergreen By Design. You can use any email provider that you want. If you chose to use a third-party email provider Evergreen By Design is not responsible for any fees associated with that third-party email provider.

Domain and Hosting

With every plan you get 1 domain of your choosing. This domain will always be yours as long as you are with Evergreen By Design. If you are canceling your plan, you may take your domain to another domain registrar.

I do cover all transfer fees of domains into my registrar, but I don't cover any fees for domains transferring out of my registrar.

All plans come with hosting as well. The goal of all of this is so you don't have to worry about your domain and hosting purchases and renewals. Evergreen By Design covers those costs for you.

Content Construction Tips and Information

One of the most difficult parts for some of my clients is creating or coming up with the content for their website. Some people are not writers while others are just stuck on where to begin.

I get asked all the time if I could create the content for a client's website. Sadly, the answer is no, I cannot.

The reason being is because I don't know your business well enough to create the content for you. I deal with all sorts of different businesses and each business has unique needs and goals that they want to accomplish with their websites.

Another problem that I have encountered with clients when they can't create content is that they give me a link to a website in the same business genre and say to get the content off this website and use it for mine. I CANNOT DO THIS AND YOU SHOULD NOT DO THIS EITHER!

The reason being is because it is not only plagiarism, but to have duplicate content from another website can get your website's domain name black-listed (banned) off search engines.

Now while all content on your website is provided by you (images, written, audio, video) I do use stock images and videos sometimes to enhance your website design.

Any images and video I use are rated-g and most are just for looks and filling in content gaps to make your website design stand out.

How To Create Content for Your Website

I know this can be a scary process for some, writing is definitely not everyone's forte, but this process does not have to be scary at all.

Keep in mind that what you are about to write is everything that you already know (because it is your business) and once you start writing you will gain the confidence you need to finish, because you know your business inside and out..

1) Where to begin

I always tell my clients to start with the "Vomit" phase. I know, sounds disgusting right...lol. But it is the phase that starts your writing. You start this phase by thinking of topics that you want to inform your website visitors about your business.

Don't overthink it... just start listing topics about your business. Keep in mind that in the "Vomit" phase, it does not have to be perfect or pretty (hence the name). Don't worry about spelling, punctuation, or anything like that. This is just to get ideas on paper.

Here are a few common topics to get you started:

- (1) What products and services do you offer?
- (2) Information of said services and products?
- (3) How does your business work (what we do here)

- (4) Frequently asked questions by your customers (not necessarily for a FAQ section, but more for providing information about your products or services to your website visitors).
- (5) About Your business (AKA About Page): This is a great place to start if you are having trouble with creating a topic list about your business. Just start writing (like you're talking to a person) about your business, where you started, how your business came about and why you got into this business to begin with. Then, re-read what you wrote down and start polling topics from here.
- (6) What needs does your products or services fulfill: Again, another great starting point for creating a topic list for your business.

After you have sat down and created a list of topics for your business the next phase to use that topic list as headings and start writing about each topic in more detail.

This can be as long or as short as it needs to be. Don't stress, just write like you are talking about that topic.

Remember... this first process is just to get words on paper in some sort of orderly fashion. It does not need to look pretty, be spelled correctly, or even be used on the website.

This process is just for creating as much written content about your business as you can.

2) Refining your written content

Now that you have words on paper you can start to refine your written content. One tip that I always give my clients in this phase of writing is to READ YOUR CONTENT OUT LOUD! Not just in your head.

The reason being is because when we write, we write from our head and what makes sense in our head does not always translate on paper. If we go back and read it just from our head then it might still sound good to you.

But, if you read your content out loud you will notice that there might be some sentences that just don't flow off the tongue or that you stumble on! Those are the parts of your writing that need to be reworded so that it is EASY TO READ OUT LOUD!

If it is easy to read your content out loud, then it is easy for others reading your content to understand what you are writing about.

3) Use writing program software to create your written content

Why make life harder by looking up correct spellings, punctuations, or proper phrasing of sentences. Instead, use a program like Microsoft Word or any other writing program that you have on your computer to help with the refining process.

If you don't have a writing program, I highly recommend Grammarly. It is a website that is a free writing program that can help you out tremendously.

There is a paid version for more in depth corrections but I have found the free version to be terrific!

Grammarly Link: <https://www.grammarly.com/>

4) Step outside of written content

Most people think that the only content on their website has to be written. But content now in days comes in many forms including video, audio, files, images.

This type of content can really personalize your website to your business or services.
